

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Global View Capital Management Partners with Ned Davis Research On Tactical Strategies for Advisors

Waukesha, WI, November 17, 2015

Global View Capital Management (GVCM) www.gvmanagement.com , a registered investment advisor providing advanced portfolio construction and a fee based management platform, launches a series of Tactical Strategies based on institutional research and models provided by The Ned Davis Research Group (NDRG).

The strategies are tactically allocated by objectively assessing the primary trends and relative risks among stocks, bonds, and cash using Ned Davis Research's original proprietary "fusion analysis" of trend, valuation, sentiment, economic, and interest indicators. Ned Davis Research's analysis closely follows investment, economic, and monetary themes worldwide. This research is synthesized for the allocation tilts of its domestic and global strategies.

Global View Capital Management is filling a void advisors are experiencing today within the investment advisory platform business. The four Global View Ned Davis Research models will strictly follow the Ned Davis methodology, and will be designed to target specific levels of risk. The new joint strategy, the Global View NDR Tactical 60, presents a new approach allowing for a wider band of equity exposure. Further, the addition of a conservative model designed to address the needs of low risk strategies offers growth potential in a low interest rate environment.

"Our investment management team is thrilled with the opportunity to work with such a world-class organization as Ned Davis Research. The synergy between our firms is evidenced by the speed in which the offerings have been launched. We are especially honored to be the first platform chosen by Ned Davis Research to make their research available in retail models," states Dina Fliss, President of Global View Capital Management.

"Global View is doing great things for their clients. Ned Davis Research is excited to bring more to that relationship, and to partner with such a successful and well-respected organization to do it. We look forward to working with Global View", said Robert Schuster, Chief Operating Officer of Ned Davis Research.
