GOVSENSE FOR BUILDING DEPARTMENTS

The building department of tomorrow is drastically different than the departments of the past. As technology evolves, so must the way we serve our constituents.

Empowering Land Management Processes

GovSense brings a faster, simpler and more collaborative experience to your department.

- Seamlessly communicate with individuals across departments.
- Share information within one platform minimizing room for error and unnecessary time delays.

When looking for the information stored with other departments, you're likely wondering: how do I get it? How difficult is it to access?

Building departments are often the first and last stop in any land process.

Is this existing structure legal?

Who owns this property?

What is the max occupancy for that business?

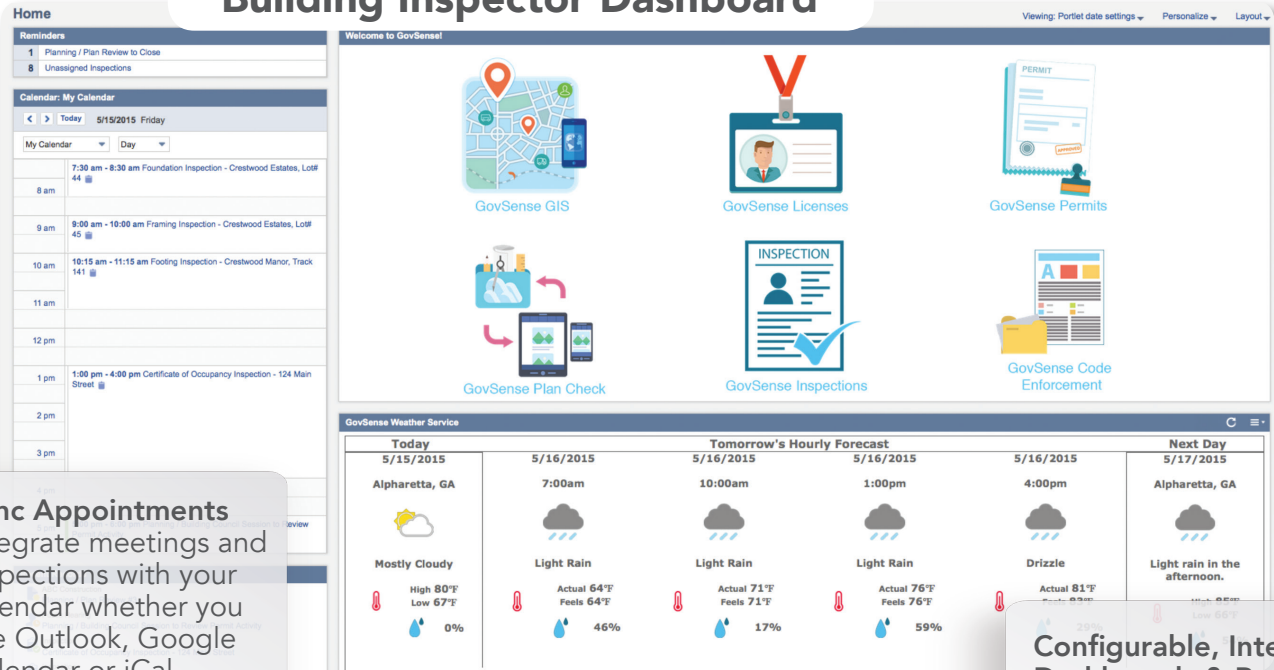

Why can't I build my fence here?

Is this type of work permitted?

Universal Collaboration

Building department users are empowered with a 360° view:
